VOICE.

1. Lone-some lit-tle coon,
2. South-ern moon is high,

(Vamp.)

sigh - in' neath the moon,
lit - tle coon is nigh,

Sigh - in' bout his ab-sent la-dy love,
He has fol-lowed her to Ten-ne - see,

Send - in' ev'- ry day,
Sings a ser - e - nade,

let - ters far a - way,
to the fick - le maid,

To the one he calls his tur-tle dove; ———— An-swer does-nt
As he's stand-in' 'neath the old pine tree; ———— Is - nt ve - ry come, long, coon is feel-in' glum, Thinks he'll fol - low her to Ten-nesere she hears the song, From the one who calls her tur-tle see, ———— But she's won an - oth - er man, Peo - ple call him dove, ———— Leans out on the win - dow sill, Says, "Will you for -

"Hand-some Dan," Reads dis note to Dan in scorn-ful glee. ———— give me Bill," When she hears him sing dis song of love. ————

CHORUS.

If a you love me, Hon - ey, Hon-ey, won't you tell me so, —

p-f

Is it cause I've no mon - ey, Hon ey, tell me yes or no; —

Why do you keep me wait - in' Out here where dewind do blow, —

Ba-by, don't be so ag-gra - va - tin' Hon-ey, won't you let me know — know.
