

UNDER THE MISTLETOE-BOUGH.

WORDS BY OLIVER COLLINS.

MUSIC BY ALFRED SOLMAN.

Andante Moderato

1
2 One
3 Long

pp

The first system of the musical score. It features a vocal line at the top and a piano accompaniment below. The tempo is marked 'Andante Moderato'. The piano part includes a 'pp' (pianissimo) dynamic marking. To the right of the vocal line, there are three numbered options: '1', '2 One', and '3 Long', indicating different phrasing or performance choices for the lyrics.

Snow in the fields and the Christ-mas Bells ring - ing their glad re - frain, year had passed and the Christ-mas tide glad-dened my heart once more, For years have passed since those hap - py - days Here I am sit - ting a-lone.

The second system of the musical score, containing the lyrics. The lyrics are: 'Snow in the fields and the Christ-mas Bells ring - ing their glad re - frain, year had passed and the Christ-mas tide glad-dened my heart once more, For years have passed since those hap - py - days Here I am sit - ting a-lone.' The piano accompaniment continues below the lyrics.

Arm in arm with my sweet - heart Nell a - down thro' the wood - ed lane
Nell that day would be - come my bride to wor - ship to love and a - dore
Gone is the light of my loved one's gaze and joy un - to me is un - known

This is the pict - ure I'll nev - er for - get though life seems so dis - mal now For Bright seem'd the fut - ure but bright - er shone the light on my loved ones brow As I Down past the lane where we used to stray as hap - py as life could al - low And hap - py were we when our glan - ces met un - der the Mis - tle - toe - Bough, took her hand and made her my own un - der the Mis - tle - toe - Bough, there midst the flow'rs they've laid her a - way un - der the Mis - tle - toe - Bough.

rit pp

CHORUS.

Tempo di Valse.

Un - der the ev - er - green mis - tle, where lov - ing hearts u - nite

When the world a round us seems so gay and so bright

Though'tis the time of glad - ness, to fate we all have to bow

For hearts will ache, and hearts will break un - der the Mis - tle - toe - bough